INTERNATIONAL PRELIMINARY EXAMINATION REPORT

International application No.
PCT/US04/01760V. Reasoned statement under Rule 66.2(a)(ii) with regard to novelty, inventive step or industrial applicability; citations and explanations supporting such statement*1. STATEMENT

Novelty (N)	Claims 1-58,60 and 61	YES
	Claims NONE	NO
Inventive Step (IS)	Claims NONE	YES
	Claims 1-58,60 and 61	NO
Industrial Applicability (IA)	Claims 1-58,60 and 61	YES
	Claims NONE	NO

2. CITATIONS AND EXPLANATIONS

The present application does not meet the criteria of Article 33(3) PCT, because the subject-matter of claims 1-58, 60-61 does not involve an inventive step in the sense of Article 33(3) PCT.

Referring to claim 1, EP0438546B is regarded as being the closest prior art to the subject-matter of claim 1, and discloses: a car comprising a frame (1) a composite body assembly (11) mounted on the frame and configured to increase rigidity of the frame, the composite body assembly including: a front body section (Fig 1b) including at least two molded panels (12, 13) connected together so as to form a clam shell assembly; the molded panels each being formed of a fiber-reinforced polymer (Claim 13); and a rear body section formed of a molded fiber-reinforced polymer (implicit).

The problem to be solved by the present invention may therefore be regarded as applying the same technology on another type of vehicle such as a golf car. The solution proposed in claim 1 of the present application cannot be considered as involving an inventive step for the following reasons: being known from EP0438546B to have a car frame on which a composite molded plastic body is to be mounted, is not regarded as inventive to have different dimensions of this body because it is logic to create such body according to the dimensions and design of another vehicle.

The same reasoning applies to the subject-matter of the corresponding independent claims 17, 32, 42, and 45, which therefore are also considered not inventive. The dependent claims do not contain any features which, in combination with the features of any claim which they refer, meet the requirements of the PCT in respect of an inventive step. They only refer to small details or to straightforward possibilities which do not seem to solve a particular problem. Claims 1, 17, 32, 42, 45 have been drafted as separate independent claims, they appear to relate effectively to same subject-matter and to differ from each other only with regard to the definition of the subject-matter for which protection is sought or in respect of the terminology used for the features of that subject-matter. The aforementioned claims therefore lack coincidence and as such do not meet requirements of Article 6 PCT.
